of particular interest, the act contains several provisions requiring health care service plans to cover prescription drugs to treat specific conditions

the study included 30 females with provoked vestibulodynia